between Fifth and Sixth.

The number of students this session is somewhat larger (about twenty more, I believe.) than dast session. The fears of the opponents of the "University will" that the free trition to Virginia students would crowd the academic schools with immature, unprepared students, have been by no means realized. The result has abundantly verified the prediction of these who insisted that the Facoity would never lower the standard of the University samply to give themselves additional work with no corresponding increase of pay. And on the other hand it has been demonstrated that the fears that this "free-taition feature" at the University would seriously damage the colleges were entirely groundless, since most of the colleges have a larger number of students this session than last. The new museum-building, the gift of our unknown friend of Rochestes, is approaching completion, and is a model of architectural beauty and adaptation to its

Mr. Corcoran's denation to the library will place upon its shelves a well-selected and much-needed lister valuable books. The "messing system" has been more fully tried this session than over before, and is now working admirably, afferding excellent fare at about ten dollars per month.

The students of this session are said to be unusually studious and enderly, and I should certainly inder as much from the almost Sabbath quiet which has reigned about the premises the several days I have been here. Recent statistics show that a goodly number of the smadents belong to the different evangelical churches, and that the Young Men's Christian Association has been actively useful during the session. As the statistics are incomplete, however, I will not give these in detail until they are perfected.

For several weeks the chaptain of the University, aided by the efficient workers of the Young Men's Christian Association, has been holding nightly meetings in the chapel, which have been well attended and of growing interest. Bev. S. A. Steele, of Richmond, on the last funday night in March made an address before the Young Men's Christian Association, which I have heard very highly spoken of. Rev. J. William Jones has been preaching every night since Thursday; and Rev. A. W. Weddell is to begin a senies of sermons Tuesday night. The congregations are large and solemning attentive; Christians have ever done, and call especial attention to this seem thoroughly in earnest; a number of inquirers are reported; and there seems every prospect of an extensive revival.

The chaplain (Rev. Mr. McBryde) has won golden opinions from every class for the able, earnest, and efficient manner in which he has discharged his important duties. By the way, I have recently had opportunity of looking over a list of the chaplains who have served the University since the establishment of the office, and have been struck with the number of able and efficient men from the several denominations on the list. And the friends of the University will be glad to know that in the recently-appointed chaplain, Rev. A. B. Woodfin, who enters upon his duties on the SPECIAL ATTRACTION. 1st of October next, they will find an able preacher, a thorough Christian gentleman, and a most efficient worker among young

A most gratifying feature of the work at the University is the large number of the Faculty who are active Christians. Several and the public generally that we have now in store dents, and the influence of many of these Christian gentlemen is decidedly salutary on the students. I heard Sunday afternoon | tion not to be undersold, we have marked our whole one of the course of Bible lectures which stock at figures so reasonable as to recommend them Professor N. K. Davis gives to all who desire to attend, and was very much impressed by the ability and real value of his expositions of the Scriptures.

I was not surprised to hear that the new Professor of Greek (Professor T. R. Price) is most worthally filling the chair of his illustrious predecessors, and has at once established an enviable reputation for both scholarship and "aptness to teach," while scholarship and "aptness to teach," while scholarship and "aptness to teach," with he is at the same time very popular with his students. The breaking of the two banks in Charlottesville has been a terrible blow to several of the professors, who have not only lost their stock and their deposits, but are now called on by the Comptroller of the United States Treasury to pay in addition the amount of their stock; and yet they seem to bear it with wonderful equanimity. Various improvements in the sidewalks, the lawn, &c., are in progress, and the early spring is already clothing the University grounds with the verdure which makes them so lovely.
